

TEJASWINI MANOGNA

Tejaswini Manogna (born 19 May 1994) is an Indian model and beauty pageant titleholder. A medical doctor by profession, she won the title of Divine Miss Earth India 2019 and represented India at the 19th edition of the Miss Earth pageant held at Parañaque City, in the Philippines.

Tejaswini Manogna was born on 19 May 1994 in the city of Hyderabad of present-day Telangana, India. She did her schooling from the Rosary Convent High School and was a member of the National Cadet Corps, a youth wing of the Indian Armed Forces. At the age of 16, she was adjudged as 'India's Best NCC Cadet' and 'Best Shooter' among 1.3 million cadets of the Indian Air Force, Army and Navy. She was conferred with the Young Achiever award at the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation meet in Sri Lanka. In 2017, she received a graduation degree in medicine (MBBS) from the Osmania Medical College. Manogna is also trained in Bharatanatyam, a major form of Indian classical dance. She has national level accreditation as a graded professional dancer by Doordarshan, and India's Ministry of Culture. She has given a series of concerts and workshops at Yorkshire, Feltham and Sheffield. She holds a diploma in yoga training and has worked as a yoga instructor in Hyderabad. She also performed Bharatanatyam in front of Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam, former president of India.

She is very friendly doctor.

